Damian Hales

Damian has over 25 years of experience in the financial sector and Damian leads Deloitte's Credit Risk Management (incorporating climate risk) practice within the UK and regularly produces insights into industry publications and speaks at major Credit and Climate Risk events.

Damian supports clients to develop their strategic responses to sustainability & ESG matters and address the associated governance, risk, compliance and operational issues for their business.

He is a qualified Accountant, Risk Manager and Programme manager and typically gets involved in complex projects and topics that span Finance and Risk, such as capital management, IFRS 9, Stress testing, Enterprise Risk Management Frameworks and Risk reporting.

Academically, Damian holds a BSC (Joint Honours) in Accountancy and Economics from Southampton University and an executive MBA (Distinction) from Warwick University.

He lives just outside Cambridge, with wife and 2 kids, and enjoys spending time finishing the house he started building over 10 years ago.

Jörg Eigendorf

Jörg Eigendorf, born in 1967, is the Global Head of Communications and Sustainability. As such he is the deputy head of the Sustainability Committee chaired by the CEO and Co-Chair of the Sustainability Council. Until the end of 2015, Jörg was member of the editorial board and Chief Investigative Reporter of the media group WELT.

Prior to this, he was Economic and Financial Editor of the Welt group in Frankfurt and Berlin.

In the 1990s, he reported from Moscow as a business correspondent for the German weekly DIE ZEIT. Jörg attended the Cologne School of Journalism and subsequently studied economics at the University of Cologne.

He received several renowned journalism awards and was elected "Business Journalist of the Year" in Germany in 2012.
